DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-4 and 6-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Molne (U.S. Patent No. 5,999,811) in view of Hokkanen (U.S. Patent No. 5,675,628).

Regarding claims 1 and 17, Molne teaches a method for identifying a subscriber in a first and a second telecommunication network, wherein the subscriber possesses a mobile telephone station having a subscriber identification module, said subscriber identification module comprising means to be identified on the first telecommunication network under a first identity, as well as means to be identified on the second telecommunication network under a second identity, said method comprising:

defining the first telecommunication network as a priority with respect to the second telecommunication network (column 3, lines 1-20);

checking to see whether the mobile telephone station is inside a coverage field of the first telecommunication network when the subscriber identification module is currently identified on the second telecommunications network, said checking being made by regularly re-initializing the mobile telephone station (column 3, lines 21-32); and automatically identifying the subscriber identification module (SIM) on the first telecommunication network under the first identity when the mobile telephone station is in the coverage field of the first telecommunication network (column 4, lines 16-35).

Molne does not explicitly teach that the SIM is identified by a certain telephone network under a certain identity. However, it would have been obvious that the mobile telephone station with a SIM has to have an identity in order for the certain network to identify the station. For example, Hokkanen teaches a method and apparatus for enabling roaming of subscriber among plural mobile radio systems, using mobile equipment accepting removable subscriber identity module in which identification of a mobile subscriber is based on a SIM card in a GSM system (column 5, lines 9-10). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate the use of a certain identity of a SIM to identify a mobile station on a certain telephone network taught by Hokkanen into the method disclosed by Molne in order to easily allow temporary mobile subscriber identity roaming between different mobile radio systems.

Regarding claims 2-4, 6-16 and 18-27, see column 4, line 15 to column 5, line 3 and column 5, line 61 to column 7, line 39.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed April 13, 2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues that Molne does not teach or suggest the SIM switching subscriber identities depending on the network to which the mobile telephone is connected. It is noted that those limitations could not be found in the claims.

Conclusion

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Comroe et al. (U.S. Patent No. 4,833,701) teach a trunked communication system with nationwide roaming capability. Gerszberg (U.S. Patent No. 5,463,675) teaches an extended home identification being used by the same service provider as a home identification in a service area other than the home service area for cellular radio telephone systems. Joensuu (U.S. Patent No. 5,867,788) teaches a converting a routing address within a telecommunications network. Nordstrand (U.S. Patent No. 6,334,052) teaches a subscription-based mobile station idle mode cell selection. Peck (U.S. Patent No. 6,606,491) teaches a subscriber validation method in cellular communication system. Michaels et al. (U.S. Patent Application Publication No. 2002/0193129) teach a telecommunication system.
